

Problem Statement

College students often struggle to find quiet, comfortable, and private spaces to study on campus. Libraries and common areas are frequently crowded and noisy, making it difficult to focus.

Details

The inability to find suitable study environments leads to decreased productivity, increased stress levels, and lower academic performance. Students may also experience physical discomfort due to inadequate seating and poor lighting in makeshift study areas. There is a need for portable, customizable study solution that provides a distraction-free, comfortable environment anywhere on campus. Addressing whether this issue would help students focus better, improve their study habits, and enhance their overall academic experience.
